IMPLANTING CONFIDENCE

To help alleviate your hip pain and get you moving again, we've developed the Mobile Bearing Hip System designed to help prevent dislocation.

Our Mobile Bearing Hip System features X3 Precisely Engineered Polyethylene that may enhance joint stability, provide a more natural range of motion, and minimize the risk of wear that may help prolong the life of the implant.

stryker MOBILE BEARING HIP SYSTEM

Stability • Longevity • Fixation

Test results demonstrated approximately 145° range of motion in a front-to-back sweep — a full 5% gain in range of motion when compared with fixed-bearing implants of equivalent size. Stryker's Mobile Bearing Hip™ is designed to better accommodate your natural walking (gait) cycle of movement in range of motion.

RESTORATION ACH COMPONENT

stryker MOBILE BEARING HIP SYSTEM

Dual Mobility

• TWO POINTS OF ARTICULATION •

Restoration ACH is a Mobile Bearing Hip designed to help increase patient ROM and joint longevity while providing moderate constraint. The patented anatomic dual mobility cup design reduces the risk of hip dislocation by mimicking the shape of the natural anatomy.

Regenerate Your Lifestyle. Discover the Carticel Advantage.

ARTROGENOUS CHONDROCYTE IMPLANTATION

Carticel is a collagen product using your own (autologous) cultured cartilage cells (chondrocytes) to repair the damaged articular surface in your knee. These cultured chondrocytes will regenerate articular tissue, and are returned to your doctor and put back into your knee.

Carticel is derived from a collection of chondrocytes harvested from the patient's normal, healthy articular cartilage. Biopaper has a three-weight bearing area on the inside of the knee joint, which are sealed, separated through cell culture, and expanded into cellular cartilage. Cells are then seeded into a collagen scaffold. Prior to final packaging, cell viability is assessed to be at least 80%.

When older patients with AML are not likely to, or cannot benefit from, standard intensive chemotherapy. What happens next?

Genzyme Oncology: Committed to What's Best

Genzyme Oncology is committed to continuing research to meet the needs of older patients with AML and those who cannot tolerate intensive chemotherapy.

The molecule has real life:

- Enhanced ability to quickly identify poor-risk factors
- Early identification of patients who likely to benefit from intensive therapy
- Improved QOL rates
- The ability to achieve a CR in AML, long needed through various regimens
- Reduced adverse rates
- The opportunity to get the most out of their time and body

Other AML Patients Are Often At Risk of Poor Outcomes

Older patients with AML may also benefit from several therapy options with the following risk factors:

- Advanced age and/or comorbidities
- Abnormal karyotype
- Poor ECOG performance status

There is also no standard of care for treatment of older patients with AML.

- Complete response (CR) rates in patients 60 years with first relapse therapy are low (20%)
- More than 80% of patients achieving a complete remission have relapsed (recurrence) within 6 months
